G Google Search Engine Results API

API uptime 99.740%

`/search` API endpoint allows you to scrape the results from Google search engine via our SerpApi service. Head to the playground for a live and interactive demo. You can query <https://serpapi.com/search> using a `GET` request.

API Parameters

Search Query
<code>q</code>	Required	Parameter defines the query you want to search. You can use anything that you would use in a regular Google search. e.g. <code>inurl:</code> , <code>site:</code> , <code>intitle:</code> . We also support advanced search query parameters such as <code>as_dt</code> and <code>as_eq</code> . See the full list of supported advanced search query parameters.
Geographic Location
<code>location</code>	Optional	Parameter defines from where you want the search to originate. If several locations match the location requested, we'll pick the most popular one. Head to the /locations.json API if you need more precise control. The <code>location</code> and <code>uule</code> parameters can't be used together. It is recommended to specify <code>location</code> at the city level in order to simulate a real user's search. If <code>location</code> is omitted, the search may take on the location of the proxy. When only the <code>location</code> parameter is set, Google may still take into account the proxy's country, which can influence some results. For more consistent country-specific filtering, use the <code>gl</code> parameter alongside <code>location</code> .
<code>uule</code>	Optional	Parameter is the Google encoded location you want to use for the search. <code>uule</code> and <code>location</code> parameters can't be used together.
Advanced Google Parameters
<code>ludocid</code>	Optional	Parameter defines the Google CID (customer identifier) of a place. This parameter can be found in Google Search API and Google Local API local results under the name of <code>place_id</code> , as well as in Google Maps API local results under the name of <code>data_cid</code> . You can also acquire it using Google's CID converter .
<code>lsig</code>	Optional	Parameter that you might have to use to force the knowledge graph map view to show up. You can find the <code>lsig</code> ID by using our Local Pack API or Google Local API . <code>lsig</code> ID is also available via a redirect Google uses within Google My Business .
<code>kgmid</code>	Optional	Parameter defines the id (<code>KGMID</code>) of the Google Knowledge Graph listing you want to scrape. Also known as Google Knowledge Graph ID. Searches with <code>kgmid</code> parameter will return results for the originally encrypted search parameters. For some searches, <code>kgmid</code> may override all other parameters except <code>start</code> , and <code>num</code> parameters.
<code>si</code>	Optional	Parameter defines the cached search parameters of the Google Search you want to scrape. Searches with <code>si</code> parameter will return results for the originally encrypted search parameters. For some searches, <code>si</code> may override all other parameters except <code>start</code> , and <code>num</code> parameters. <code>si</code> can be used to scrape Google Knowledge Graph Tabs.
<code>ibp</code>	Optional	Parameter is responsible for rendering layouts and expansions for some elements (e.g., <code>gwp;0,7</code> to expand searches with <code>ludocid</code> for expanded knowledge graph).
<code>uds</code>	Optional	Parameter enables to filter search. It's a string provided by Google as a filter. <code>uds</code> values are provided under the section: <code>filters</code> with <code>uds</code> , <code>q</code> and <code>serpapi_link</code> values provided for each filter.
Localization
<code>google_domain</code>	Optional	Parameter defines the Google domain to use. It defaults to <code>google.com</code> . Head to the Google domains page for a full list of supported Google domains.
<code>gl</code>	Optional	Parameter defines the country to use for the Google search. It's a two-letter country code. (e.g., <code>us</code> for the United States, <code>uk</code> for United Kingdom, or <code>fr</code> for France). Head to the Google countries page for a full list of supported Google countries.
<code>hl</code>	Optional	Parameter defines the language to use for the Google search. It's a two-letter language code. (e.g., <code>en</code> for English, <code>es</code> for Spanish, or <code>fr</code> for French). Head to the Google languages page for a full list of supported Google languages.
<code>cr</code>	Optional	Parameter defines one or multiple countries to limit the search to. It uses <code>country{two-letter upper-case country code}</code> to specify countries and <code> </code> as a delimiter. (e.g., <code>countryFR countryDE</code> will only search French and German pages). Head to the Google cr countries page for a full list of supported countries.
<code>lr</code>	Optional	Parameter defines one or multiple languages to limit the search to. It uses <code>lang_{two-letter language code}</code> to specify languages and <code> </code> as a delimiter. (e.g., <code>lang_fr lang_de</code> will only search French and German pages). Head to the Google lr languages page for a full list of supported languages.

 tbs	Optional	(to be searched) parameter defines advanced search parameters that aren't possible in the regular query field. (e.g., advanced search for patents, dates, news, videos, images, apps, or text contents).
 safe	Optional	Parameter defines the level of filtering for adult content. It can be set to <code>active</code> or <code>off</code> , by default Google will blur explicit content.
 nfpr	Optional	Parameter defines the exclusion of results from an auto-corrected query when the original query is spelled wrong. It can be set to <code>1</code> to exclude these results, or <code>0</code> to include them (default). Note that this parameter may not prevent Google from returning results for an auto-corrected query if no other results are available.
 filter	Optional	Parameter defines if the filters for 'Similar Results' and 'Omitted Results' are on or off. It can be set to <code>1</code> (default) to enable these filters, or <code>0</code> to disable these filters.

Search Type
 tbtm	Optional	(to be matched) parameter defines the type of search you want to do. It can be set to: <code>(no tbtm parameter)</code> : regular Google Search, <code>isch</code> : Google Images API, <code>lcl</code> - Google Local API <code>vid</code> : Google Videos API, <code>nws</code> : Google News API, <code>shop</code> : Google Shopping API, <code>pts</code> : Google Patents API, or any other Google service.

Pagination
 start	Optional	Parameter defines the result offset. It skips the given number of results. It's used for pagination. (e.g., <code>0</code> (default) is the first page of results, <code>10</code> is the 2nd page of results, <code>20</code> is the 3rd page of results, etc.).
 num	Optional	Google Local Results only accepts multiples of <code>20</code> (e.g. <code>20</code> for the second page results, <code>40</code> for the third page results, etc.) as the <code>start</code> value. Parameter defines the maximum number of results to return. (e.g., <code>10</code> (default) returns 10 results, <code>40</code> returns 40 results, and <code>100</code> returns 100 results). The use of <code>num</code> may introduce latency, and/or prevent the inclusion of specialized result types. It is better to omit this parameter unless it is strictly necessary to increase the number of results per page. Results are not guaranteed to have the number of results specified in <code>num</code> .

Serpapi Parameters
 engine	Optional	Set parameter to <code>google</code> (default) to use the Google API engine.
 device	Optional	Parameter defines the device to use to get the results. It can be set to <code>desktop</code> (default) to use a regular browser, <code>tablet</code> to use a tablet browser (currently using iPads), or <code>mobile</code> to use a mobile browser.
 nocache	Optional	Parameter will force SerpApi to fetch the Google results even if a cached version is already present. A cache is served only if the query and all parameters are exactly the same. Cache expires after 1h. Cached searches are free, and are not counted towards your searches per month. It can be set to <code>false</code> (default) to allow results from the cache, or <code>true</code> to disallow results from the cache. <code>nocache</code> and <code>async</code> parameters should not be used together.
 async	Optional	Parameter defines the way you want to submit your search to SerpApi. It can be set to <code>false</code> (default) to open an HTTP connection and keep it open until you got your search results, or <code>true</code> to just submit your search to SerpApi and retrieve them later. In this case, you'll need to use our Searches Archive API to retrieve your results. <code>async</code> and <code>nocache</code> parameters should not be used together. <code>async</code> should not be used on accounts with Ludicrous Speed enabled.
 zerotrace	Optional	Enterprise only. Parameter enables ZeroTrace mode . It can be set to <code>false</code> (default) or <code>true</code> . Enable this mode to skip storing search parameters, search files, and search metadata on our servers. This may make debugging more difficult.
 apikey	Required	Parameter defines the SerpApi private key to use.
 output	Optional	Parameter defines the final output you want. It can be set to <code>json</code> (default) to get a structured <code>JSON</code> of the results, or <code>html</code> to get the raw html retrieved.
 jsonrestrictor	Optional	Parameter defines the fields you want to restrict in the outputs for smaller, faster responses. See JSON Restrictor for more details.

Note on Search Queries using the parameter <code>num</code>
	Due to Google's new Knowledge Graph layout, Google is ignoring the <code>num</code> parameter for the first page of results in many searches related to celebrities, famous groups, and popular media.
	When <code>start</code> parameter is used and set to <code>1</code> or higher, the <code>num</code> parameter works as expected.
	Until Google resolves this issue, if necessary, you may set <code>start</code> to <code>1</code> in order to get the parameter <code>num</code> to work normally.

API Results

JSON Results

JSON output includes structured data for organic results, local results, ad results, the knowledge graph, direct answer boxes, images results, news results, shopping results, video results, and more.

A search status is accessible through `search_metadata.status`. It flows this way: Processing -> Success || Error. If a search has failed, `error` will contain an error message. `search_metadata.id` is the search ID inside SerpApi.

HTML Results

HTML output is useful to debug JSON results or support features not supported yet by SerpApi.

HTML output gives you the raw HTML results from Google.

API Examples

Example with `q: Coffee` parameter

- organic_results: Wikipedia entry for "Coffee" and a link to "Coffee - Wikipedia".
- local_map: A map of Austin, Texas, showing coffee shop locations like Starbucks, Houdsoontch Coffee, and Joe's Coffee.
- local_results: Listings for Starbucks, Houdsoontch Coffee, and The Hideout Coffee House, each with a rating and review count.
- related_questions: A sidebar with questions like "Is it healthy to drink coffee everyday?", "Is coffee made from poop?", etc.
- organic_results: Links to "21 Excellent Coffee Shops in Austin", "Home | The Coffee Bean & Tea Leaf", and "Peet's Coffee: The Original Craft Coffee".
- recipes_results: A section titled "Recipes" with links to "Bulletproof Coffee Recipe", "Whipped Coffee", and "Magical Coffee".
- organic_results: A section titled "Starbucks Coffee Company" with a link to "Starbucks Review - The World's Leading Coffee Guide".
- discover_more_places: A section titled "Discover more places" with links to "Discover more places".
- related_searches: A section titled "Related searches" with links to "coffee brands", "coffee beans", "coffee near me", "coffee online", "types of coffee", "coffee maker", "coffee recipe", and "coffee origin".
- pagination: A "Goooooooooooooogle" navigation bar with page numbers 1-10 and a "Next" button.
